Temple University is the 28th largest university in the nation with nearly 40,000 students engaged in full- and part-time studies at nine campuses worldwide, from Pennsylvania to Italy and Japan. A premiere state-related public university, Temple has been recognized for its academic and research excellence in sources like U.S. News & World Report and USA Today. The university’s world class faculty, academic programs and vibrant main campus in Philadelphia, attract students from every state in the United States and more than 130 countries.

Temple offers 380 undergraduate, graduate and professional degree programs giving students unparalleled learning opportunities. It’s faculty lead a growing research enterprise with breakthrough advances in health science, urban planning, public education, environmental sustainability and more. Temple appears on The Princeton Review’s list of the 20 “most connected, plugged-in, and high-tech campuses in America. A $1.2 billion campus development project called Temple 20/20, is creating additional state-of-the-art classrooms, research facilities, new student residential halls and recreational facilities. Temple is governed by a 36-member Board of Trustees. Neil D. Theobald is the university’s 10th president. To learn more, go to www.temple.edu.
